

Coconut shy

How it works

Three cones are placed opposite each pair of players with a ball balanced on the top of each one (the coconut shy).

To win the game the players must knock all three balls off the cones within two minutes.

To do this the first player passes the ball towards the balls balanced on the cones.

Hit or miss the player must then run out to get the ball back to their partner as quickly as possible (running with the ball or passing).

Players have two minutes to try and knock all three balls off the cones.

Possible changes

Could have teams of three with a larger group.

Play again but if a pair/group was successful then move the cones a bit further away to make it harder.
